EROTICA is the first exhibition in this country to have been granted a sex shop licence. Our carefully vetted exhibitors represent the full spectrum of adult industries; from fashion designers to silversmiths, from video producers to online adult superstores, from artists who live in the sensual realm, to publishers who reveal the things you wish you'd known years ago. Treat yourself to a designer four poster bed or a piece of navel jewellery. There's quirky too – unusual gifts, naughty and nice, at all prices.

For the first time at Erotica, on the Gallery Level, our Student Fashion and Art Award Winners get a chance to show their work, and you can see some of our artists in action in the Art Demonstration Area.

Our Video Village takes full advantage of the new R18 regulations, with a superb selection of hardcore videos and DVDs. (This is a closed area with respect for those of you who'd rather not view explicit images.)

And if you don't get round the whole Show – our Exhibitors' details are here for you to follow up later.

● Now are you ready to be seduced?

Back for their third year, Hay-Way Shoes is Sexier, Bigger and Better than ever. Their latest innovation is the 'shaft heel'. Dangerously sexy!

This unashamedly erotic, half metal, highly polished heel, with the top half the same colour as the shoe or boot of which it is part, is available in heights of 4 and 6 inches (Hmmm!).

Show this editorial to Hay-Way Shoes at Stand F34 to get £5 off a pair of shoes/boots with the shaft heel.

Hay-Way manufacture all their own footwear – shoes, sandals, ankle boots and thigh boots and will make to order too. So show them your tootsies!

Gothic romance

Vanitas Empire UK is a new exhibitor to Erotica and one not to be missed. The basis of their designs is historical and the over-all effect is sumptuous decadence with a dark romantic flavour . . . Their textile-based clothing is, for the greater part, based around the corset. Bodices, skirts, jackets, coats and steel-boned corsetry are beautifully constructed from high grade silks, brocades and silk-velvets. These lavish garments are complimented by elaborately designed jewellery created from antique castings with jet and blood-red crystal set stones. Vanitas' heavily embossed range of moulded leather clothing and accessories, based on an ancient German technique and set with silver and cabuchon stones is unique in the world. Industrial rubbermail and chainmail, all hand-linked and skillfully shaped to realistic, wearable patterns completes their range of clothing and accessories. Feathered pheonix wings, highly reflective heavily chrome-plated masks and a host of other exotic accessories add the final touches. Stand F26.

Ace performer

Allycat, known for their stainless steel collars, are now manufacturing a range of armour and bodices. Much of their new range will have its first showing at Erotica and fans of their fetish/goth style will not be disappointed. Cyber/clubwear is also featured strongly. Allycat make a range of metal heel covers, and shin panels in metal and leather, to attach to Terry de Havilland's now famous transmuter boots. Allycat's senior fashion designer, Zoe Dorman has designed metal ware for artist Pete Burns, Pink, Marion Manson and the soon-to-be-released sequel to the film Interview with a Vampire.

Raven, Allycat's better-looking half (no offense Mark!) is pictured wearing their leather body armour. In her own right, Raven is a performance artist - fire-eating, hammering 6" nails up her nose, having paving slabs broken on her torso while lying on a bed of nails, eating broken glass . . . so, unless you are a talent scout, I'd be careful who you chat up on Stand S8 (or don one of Allycat's metal bodices first).

The Glamour Slapper Girls don't limit themselves to a life of creative pleasure, but also welcome you to indulge in various erotic theme nights. Corsets for curves Velda Lauder has been creating corsetry in London for almost 10 years. Her collections have been featured in films, music videos and on the catwalk. Her first collection, the spectacular 'Warrior Woman' was Wonder Woman meets Boudicca. Her second collection, 'Vanity' saw an interesting twist on fetish themes with dazzling glitter fabrics in vibrant jewel colours that became an instant hit with London's performers, club and scene stars, drag queens, video stylists and bands. Velda's current collection, 'Uber curve' is designed for the voluptuous woman. The corsets are cut to contour and create cleavage - the fuller the figure, the more dramatic the look. But don't take my word for it - sashay on over to Stand A18 and breathe in!

FASHION - RUBBER

Let's take a journey into the fascinating world of rubber. Sleek and chic, this fully fledged fetish fabric is suddenly almost mainstream! The rest of the fashion world has woken up to this look that can be adapted to enhance our best features and at the same time help to hide and flatten – what a dream come true! Another exciting revelation is that rubber does not have to be black! Rubber, or latex to be precise, is now being produced in wonderful vibrant and fluorescent colours.

For true lovers of rubber it remains as rewarding to wear as it is to look at. Unique to this fabric are the amazing warm and wet sensations that its wearers enjoy; its restrictiveness is also savoured by the connoisseur; and who is to say which is more erotic, pouring into your outfit or peeling it off? So for those who have never tried wearing rubber, discovering its visual appeal will be fun and its feel good factor a real unexpected bonus.

So to conclude our journey here is a versatile, sensual material with an air of exclusivity for true fetish fans, which also lends its panache to the high street – rubber is definitely in a class of its own! Have a look at the new and exciting latex fashions on offer at Passiongear.com. You will be amazed at the beautiful classy designs. We also have a made to measure service for that perfect fit.

Taking care of this specialist fabric is important. We stock a full range of products to condition latex garments and to achieve that illuminating high gloss look that is the vital finishing touch for your outfit.

Cult dressing

If you enjoy wearing latex clothing you'll be familiar with the difficulty of getting it on. And of keeping it bright and shiny. And if you haven't worn latex, maybe the stands at Erotica will tempt you to try. Lots of people use talcum powder to ease on tight latex outfits. But Eros UK sell an amazing product that you put inside the latex garment to help it slip on effortlessly. It's called Cult Dressing Aid and at £11 per 100ml bottle it lasts for ages. It's much better than talc. Keeping latex nice and shiny is often a problem too. Cult Shining Spray, also from Eros UK, can be sprayed onto the latex to keep it shiny without the hassle of buffing. Urban warriors

David Spain launched the innovative and original range of alternative body armour for which he is best known in 1996. At this year's Erotica, David updates his entire range with fresh and exiting styles and better and more flexible features. His new 'modular', 'interactive' garments make use of steel plates, steel tubing and additional LED lights. The modular sections are designed to enable the client to build up their David Spain collection.

With new interactive garments for example the 'arms', break down into 3 pieces: top arm, elbow joint, and a choice of forearm cuffs, with or without LED lights. The new shoulder harness for both men and women can be worn as a fantastic piece on its own, or to complement your existing David Spain body vest, dress, or bodice. uniforms

Everyone can relate to the thrill you get from dressing up for a special night out. But how much more intense that sensation becomes when you dress outrageously for a special night in! Wearing a costume is an effective way to switch off from your everyday worries, and slip into role play. It is highly arousing to look in the mirror and see a truant schoolgirl, Cleopatra, a gladiator or a pilot looking back at you. Use role play to explore the parts of yourself that only you and your lover ever see. That is unless you dare to take your alter ego out into the night – pre-arranging perhaps to meet your lover in a bar or club, and pretending to be strangers. . . a little imagination can go a long way.

Look around you at the number of Erotica's designers selling uniforms to realise how popular role play is. Because one thing is for sure, the most erogenous zone of our bodies is our mind. The joy of dressing for the occasion is the essence of fetish, and costume and uniforms allow fun and fantasy to reign supreme. As the founder of www.passiongear.com I have always enjoyed the diversity the fetish scene offers. You will find the options are endless, especially when you team your imagination with our dedication to fulfil your fantasies.

Each year thousands of dressed up and up-for-it fetish folks descend upon London from all corners of the Earth to meet old friends and to make new ones, at the world's largest fetish celebration: the SKIN TWO Rubber Ball. The Rubber Ball is the climax of a four day fetish weekend, with three nights of parties and a fetish design fair; the SKIN TWO Expo.

After a bit of arguing and lots of counting on fingers, we finally agreed amongst ourselves that 2001 was the 10th year of the Rubber Ball and that an extra special birthday called for an extra special party! The theme is always important. People start ringing us in December, wanting to know what kind of outfits they should be planning. We went through lots of different ideas but when we went to see the fabulously revamped venue formerly known as the Hammersmith Palais (renamed the ridiculous sounding Po Na Na) 1001 Rubbery Nights: the 10th SKIN TWO Rubber Ball was born. Against a backdrop of palm trees and seductive sands, we set out to create a world of Turkish Delight, and pack it full of Eastern Promise!

People come to the Rubber Ball to dance, to party, to show off their wild outfits, but all are agreed that the thing that really makes the Ball special is its spectacular fashion show. We bring famous fetish designers and hot new names together in a fabulous fashion showcase. Torture Garden, who also produce the Erotica stage shows, are famed the world over for their jaw-dropping productions, and were chosen again this year to create a veritable Aladdin's cave of kinky delights.

When the music stopped and the show began, there was a collective gasp as a scene unfolded that united fetish imagination and Arabian themed glamour – kicked off by Libidex's imaginative reworking of Indiana Jones, complete with a glowing resplendent, heavily pregnant Vanessa, the top fetish model. Nine designers were showcased and featured tribal rhythms (courtesy of Australia's Vicious Venus/Elysian Creations) to Pharaohs, mummies, high priestesses, decadence and ritual. And throughout the night there were Casbah installations and snake charmers to magic the rubbery crowd away.

As the crowd jostled to get into the exclusive after party hosted by Club Rub, people commented that it was the best Ball ever – and by 7:30am the still partying crowd were already making plans for next year!

One of the most important things about the ball is the chance to raise money for charity. SKIN TWO promise to donate at least £1 of every ticket sold to Crusaid – who do great work for people living with HIV and AIDS. The 10th Rubber Ball raised £4000 for Crusaid. Dressing up, having a good time AND raising money for charity. What could be better?

Tickets for The SKIN TWO Rubber Ball, 7 Nov 2002 are £30 and are on sale now.

Skin Two Magazine

From the first black and white issue cut and pasted on a kitchen table with a print-run of a thousand, to the deliciously glossy 116 page journal sold worldwide today, the history of SKIN TWO Magazine is the history of fetishism itself.

The name SKIN TWO was taken from the original fetish club, in London's Soho, back in 1983 – the world had never seen anything like it. Out of this club, SKIN TWO Magazine was created by a group of friends who wanted to capture in print the new scene that was emerging. Publisher Tim Woodward remembers the auspicious day in 1984:

'One Monday night at the club, Grace Lau was complaining that there was nowhere for a feminist photographer specialising in fetishism to show her work. Pin-up magazines were sleazy and serious art magazines were nervous about sexuality. In fact, there was nothing at all to read that dealt with fetishism with any sort of style and humour. Someone mentioned that I worked in publishing and I found myself the editor of SKIN TWO Magazine. It was produced by fetishists for fetishists, there was nothing else like it and it was fun.

Now published quarterly, SKIN TWO still covers fetishism and sadomasochism with its trademark style and humour, and is enjoyed by women and men all over the world. The world has changed, though. Take SKIN TWO's invaluable listings section, the leading resource for the fetish world. Issue 1 listed 27 places to buy fetish clothing and accessories. The current issue, number 37, has around 300, in 20 different countries. Issue 2 listed 12 fetish clubs worldwide. Issue 37 has 200, with exotic locations ranging from Copenhagen to Chicago, San Francisco to er...Sutton Coldfield.

SKIN TWO is sold at Tower Records, Borders and fetish shops and via mail order. Or pick up a copy from Stand F62 today!

Torture Garden – who enthrall Erotica visitors each year with their spectacular performances – are back! And you won't be disappointed. These world class performers also produce shows for the Rubber Ball (2000 & 2001); for Archaos Circus; the launch party for Bravo TV; and various fetish events around the world, corporate parties and film/video shoots. (You might have seen them on TV: Jack Dee, The South Bank Show, Arena or Playboy TV.) Their special events have been enjoyed in Tokyo, Moscow, New York, LA, San Francisco, Fort Lauderdale and Zagreb!

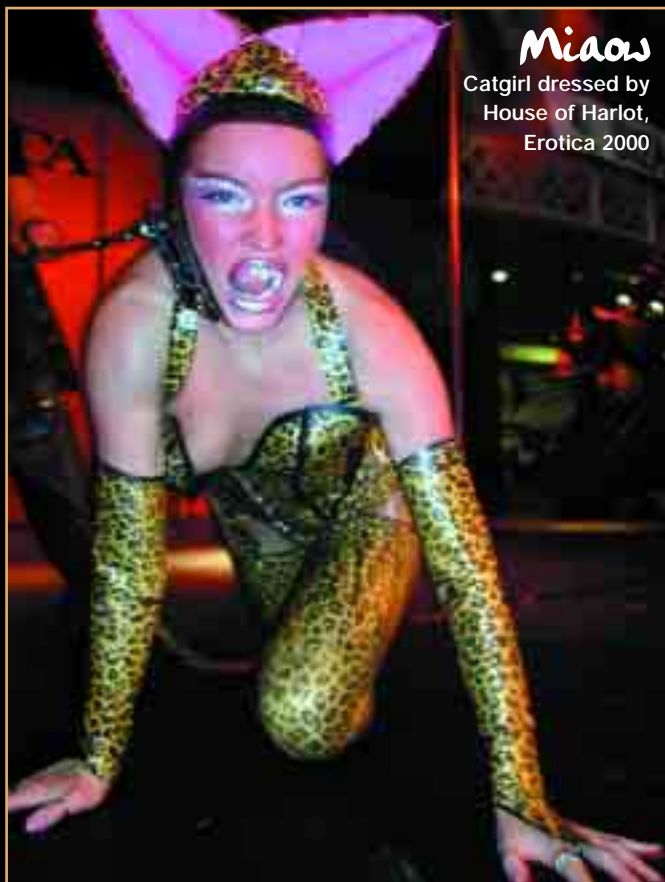

But the good news is, if you don't already know, TG hold monthly club events for 400–2000 people at top London venues such as Mass, Cynthia's, Ministry of Sound and the Brixton Academy. These events attract a diverse crowd of open minded hedonists, from 18 to 50+, including trendy young clubbers, alternative weirdo's and body art fans, and sophisticated fetish/SM regulars. There's always a strict dress code, but modern fetish clubs are now like adult fancy dress parties – more about dressing up and exploring fantasies than just rubber and leather. Torture Garden, along with other clubs such as Club Rub, Submission, the Gate and the Rubber Ball, make London the undisputed fetish clubbing capital of the world, with usually at least one great club per week attracting enthusiasts from all over the UK and even beyond for the big events. When you have been blown away by their stagemusic, make your way to Stand K22 and pick up a TG dance music CD, fetish photo book, video or T-shirt.

World class act

Ever wondered what Erotica Exhibitors do the rest of the year? Well, Toni-Louise of Foxy Promotions (second from left) is one super fit dancer. In August this year, she and three other tableside dancers established a 24-hour pole dancing world record to raise money for breast cancer for the Cancer Research Campaign. The event was hosted by the For Your Eyes Only club in Mayfair. Toni-Louise, Jade, Storm and Francesca, all from FYEO clubs in UK, danced non-stop for 24 hours on or by a pole, each performing in 20-minute sets. The girls battled through the pain barrier in the gruelling marathon. Professional masseurs kept their thighs and biceps in shape, but severe blistering and abrasions from constantly swinging on the pole almost halted the attempt. Susan Osborne, Director of Communications and Information at the Cancer Research Campaign said, 'The Cancer Research Campaign is in pole position to help the fight against breast cancer. I never cease to be amazed at the ingenious ways our supporters find to raise vital funds.' The girls' success has prompted FYEO to launch a Pole Dancing School! So what are you all waiting for?

Lubricant is often perceived as a product for women who have difficulty producing lubrication naturally. But lube is for everyone. Women and men of all persuasions find it a terrific sex aid. Who doesn't like their partner (or themselves) masturbating them with a silky lube? If you haven't tried it you don't know what you're missing.

And if you're using a dildo or butt-plug, whether vaginally or anally, plenty of good quality lube is essential. The rectum tends to be sticky. You don't want to tear its delicate lining tissue or find your sex toy getting stuck.

The vast majority of lubes are water-based. Eros lubricants are dimethicone based. This is a silicate, which is completely neutral and inert. It sits on the skin's surface and doesn't dry out and get tacky. It's non-toxic, doesn't smell, and doesn't taste. Eros lubes are not tested on animals. They are hypoallergenic and are completely safe externally and internally. They are TUV certified latex safe (that's the German equivalent of our BSI kite-mark).

The Eros range includes Classic (the famous black bottle) and Pjur Woman designed for women's more sensitive skin. Then there's Light Love, a bit lighter as the name suggests, and Waterformulation. The latter is a dilute version of Classic for those who like a little more friction. Eros products are available in 1.5ml sachets to monster 1000ml bottles for the 'industrial' user, and at £75 each are great value. The most popular size in all styles is the 100ml at £11, closely followed by the 250ml at £23.

Lubes are also perfect for a sexy, sensual massage. So, not only should you keep a bottle by the bed, but, as the girls at Cosmopolitan Magazine said earlier this year, 'always carry some Eros with you for quicker, slicker sex.'

Check out Eros' web site where they operate a discreet mail-order service. Or visit Stand C5.

& Dildos & Plugs

Dildos have been used for over 30,000 years to enhance sexual pleasure. Pictures of dildos have been found in Upper Paleolithic art, and in ancient Greek paintings of the 4th and 5th centuries. In Hellenistic times, the manufacturing and distribution centre of dildos, known then as 'olisbos', was the coastal town of Miletus, situated on modern Turkey's west coast. And the Kama Sutra refers to dildos made of wood and tied to the waist. The word 'dildo' is thought to have originated in the 15th century from the Italian 'diletto', meaning 'delight'. So, if you enjoy using dildos, you're not alone, and haven't been for tens of thousands of years.

Commonly used for vaginal stimulation, as a substitute for, or an alternative to, an erect penis, they can also be used for anal stimulation, exciting those thousands of ultra-sensitive nerve endings surrounding that most taboo part of the body. If you want something mainly for anal insertion, buy a butt-plug. These have a wide base that prevent them getting lost!

Use them when you are alone, or with a partner. As an addition to genital stimulation they are fantastic. Many people of both sexes adore oral sex, and inserting a dildo into your partner while going down on them can heighten the sexual thrill enormously.

© alan@whatsyours.com

On Darling, all for me?

Dildos and butt plugs by Eros UK, fetish dolls from RubberCare. Photography by Alan at www.whatsyours.com 'Erotic Website of the Year 2001'

Ancient dildos were crude, being made of leather, wood, or even elephant dung (yeeeeuch!). The best modern dildos are made of silicone or a slightly more giving vinyl material. Although more expensive, silicone and vinyl dildos and plugs do not have a porous surface and so do not have the same propensity to collect fluids and bacteria that other materials do. Keep them clean by washing in warm soapy water. To be extra hygienic, or if you share anal toys, you can use condoms on them.

Everyone has their favourite shape, whether it's the traditional penis with realistic contours, or models that come in a variety of weird and wonderful shapes. the pleasure zone

Do you remember the first clitoris jokes? You know the ones: Q. 'What's the difference between a pub and a clitoris?' A. 'A man can usually find his way to the pub'. It was those alternative comedians in the early eighties – the likes of Eddie Izzard – who first shone the spotlight on that sensitive subject (so to speak). If you can remember how shocking these gags were when they were first told, you must be at least as old as I am!

'Okay, okay,' I hear you say. Things have moved on since then. You no longer subscribe to Cosmopolitan for fear that your sexual repertoire falls short of the mark. You know exactly where your (her) pleasure button is located and just how to stimulate it. You are a sexually confident, sassy, mature woman (or lover of) who knows her body and wouldn't dream of dating anyone who knows less than you do (unless you like initiation ceremonies – and that's ok too).

But do you know what the clitoris looks like? Not just the nodule on the outside that you can point to (sometimes hidden beneath its hood) but the whole clitoris? No, most of us don't. Because the clitoris is a much bigger structure than we have been led to believe. What we have called 'the clitoris' for years, is only the 'glans' of a much bigger structure. Like the tip of an iceberg (only much warmer) the major part of the clitoris lies within us. The glans is connected to the shaft which in turn splits into two 'legs' that extend inside us on either side of the vagina. Clitoral tissue is attached to each of these legs.

This clitoral tissue connects with other sexual 'hot spots', two of which are easy to locate for yourself. By inserting your thumb into your vagina and pressing down towards your anus, then releasing, you can feel the tissue of the 'perineal sponge'.

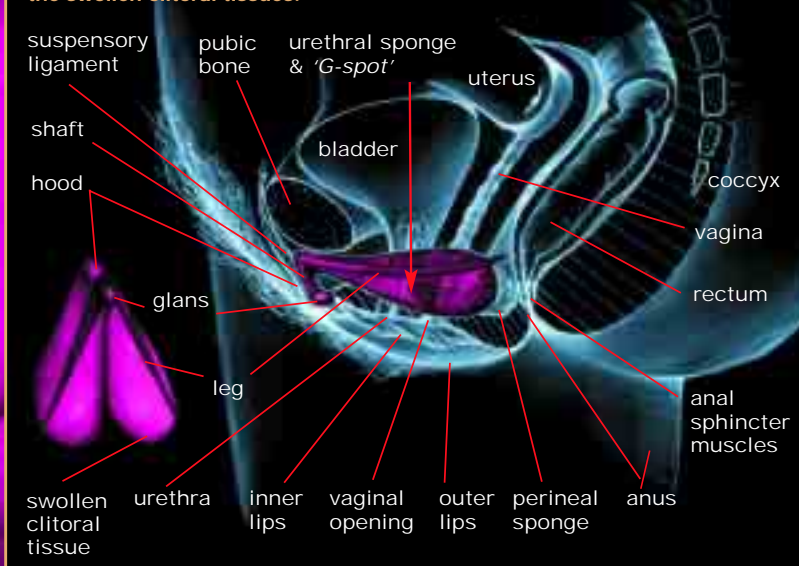

And if you insert two fingers into the vagina and feel up and along the front wall you should find your G-spot; a spot, about two inches in, directly behind the clitoris, where the smooth vaginal wall takes on a ridged texture. This is a lot easier to find when you are sexually aroused. The G-spot is the point where the 'urethral sponge' butts up to the vaginal wall. And the urethral sponge is also surrounded by clitoral tissue. Understanding that these two hot spots are connected by the same clitoral tissue structure helps to make sense of why we can be aroused by different forms of sexual stimulation.

Which brings me rather nicely to ejaculation (!) Female ejaculate is believed to be produced in the paraurethral gland within the urethral sponge. (The same gland which develops into the prostate in men, becomes the urethral sponge in women.) Stimulating the G-spot seems to be the main way to excite a woman to very powerful orgasms and to ejaculate. But for many women this orgasmic joy requires dual stimulation of the clitoris (clitoral glans) and the G-spot together. If you have a willing partner who is prepared to spend time and effort on this, you are more than halfway there.

©Superia Supplies

During arousal, the whole clitoral tissue structure becomes engorged with blood, the surrounding muscles tighten, and the shaft and glans become erect. The clitoris and the penis are in fact very similar in structure. During orgasm the surrounding muscles contract in unison, and squeeze the swollen clitoral tissues.

You don't always need to orgasm to ejaculate. And you don't always need to ejaculate to orgasm. It is now believed that women experience several different types of orgasm. (We are such complex and lucky creatures!) But for those who can squirt, it mostly happens on the point of orgasm, and only after serious stimulation of both the clit and the G-spot. (I know I've said it before, but it's worth repeating!)

If you have not experienced ejaculation it may be because you are holding back. Because the sensation you get just before you ejaculate is as if you are going to urinate. You won't. The next time you are deliciously aroused and you feel as though you are going to pee the bed, relax and test drive

Blue Dolphin The 7 inch silicone-covered penis head rotates (very pleasing) while the dolphin clit stimulator vibrates (with any luck, on your clit).

External battery unit/controller.

Shower Boy An eight inch waterproof, soft silicone sleeve over a sturdy chrome dildo/battery unit & multi-speed vibrating clit stimulator. Good if your clit is near your vagina. Had me convinced! 3 x AA batteries. £22.95

Flippr Fabulous little shower toy – a vibrating twist-on mini-egg with a waterproof soft silicone cover that slips easily onto your finger, or into your bag or pocket. Only slightly too large to be mistaken for finger jewellery! 1 x N battery. £12.95

Non-Doctor Gold A best seller, with four interchangeable heads for nipple, anal, clitoral and whole body massage. Traditional hard vibrator, a little noisy. 2 x C batteries. £16.95

Water Bunny A 6 inch firm but pliable shower-proof vibe with ears positioned to tickle your clit. Similar to the Shower Boy but with firmer sleeve & different vibes. 2 x AA batteries. £19.95

Micro Finger Tingler Now this I liked! A wonderful addition to dexterous fingers. Hard, smooth and quiet with pleasing vibrations. Discreet and portable; will travel far! Takes tiny watch batteries – so stock up.

Heart Shaped G-Spot This strap-on vibrator is designed to stimulate your clit, vagina, G-spot and anus all at once. A little ambitious, perhaps – it either fits or it doesn't. External battery unit/controller. 2 x AA batteries. £24.95

Whisper Leading sex therapist, Dr Andrew Stanway, who developed this vibrator claims it is the world's quietest and most powerful. I won't argue with that – it's my first choice! 2 x C batteries. £24.95

Erosillator 2 Endorsed by sex therapist, Dr Ruth, with interchangeable heads, this vibrator oscillates in a series of tiny rapid movements, producing serious vibrations. Mains powered for neverending pleasure. £59.95

good vibrations

A vibrator is an electrical device that quivers and is used most often to stimulate a woman's external genitals. Some vibrators are phallic in shape and can also be used for penetration, but their key attribute is their vibrating movement. They can be used for masturbation or to enhance sex with a partner. Some women have their most intense sexual experiences when using vibrators. And they are favoured by many women who otherwise find it difficult to achieve orgasm. (There are vibrators specifically designed for men but here we have concentrated on 'women's' vibrators.)

It is important to note, when choosing a vibrator, that we are all made differently. A phallic-shaped vibrator with clit stimulator that makes your friend howl at the moon, might, when you try inserting, not even make physical contact with your sensitive part. And powerful vibrations that one woman finds arousing might be numbingly intense to another.

As a general rule, mains operated vibrators are more powerful than battery operated and will keep a constant vibration. But they may be a little too intense for some. With battery operated vibes the bigger the batteries the more powerful the vibrations. But bigger is not always better. Some of the smallest toys we reviewed really hit the spot. You might find some vibrators are too noisy. You might like one that fits neatly in your handbag. You might like one that is suitable for all over body massage . . . The main thing is to experiment: with the shape and type of vibrator, with the intensity of vibration and on where you use it. And remember to stock up on spare batteries! ● Ed.

Pump it up!

The Body Images 'Mustang' Penis Enlargement System is designed and manufactured in the UK to the highest standards and made from superior quality materials. The system is used by professional male strippers and body builders and should give years of reliable use. After just a few sessions your penis will be larger, thicker and heavier. This will last dramatically for several hours after pumping. During most of the following day your penis will be longer in the flaccid state. Vacuum pumping is the most effective method of enlargement. A permanent increase of 1 1/2" (3.8 cm) in length and 1 3/4" (4.4cm) in width is not uncommon. Your penis will also become more sensitive – making sex a much more enjoyable experience.

Also available is the Body Images Nipple Enlargement System – it speaks for itself. (Rumoured to be useful on the clitoris too! Why let the boys have all the fun).

For women, sensuality is often very different from sexuality. We don't talk about how big something is, but rather how it feels. Yes, we women focus on our senses in a way that you men could learn from. A friend of mine told me recently that she was watching a cookery programme when she realised that it was about sex. All sex. Watch Jamie Oliver or Nigella Lawson sometime to see what she means.

It is all slurping and dipping, and licking of fingers and lips.

Another good friend says that before she makes love with her partner she needs to spend a while snuggled up close to him on the sofa to get her in the mood. She describes how she needs to smell his scent. And this one sense – the sense of smell – is enough to turn her on. This is foreplay for her. She isn't interested in coming straight in from work and getting down to it. She needs to let their chemistry blend a little first.

So what is it about women's sensuality? I believe we use all of our senses. A woman's sensory organ seems to be her whole body. A woman who is comfortable with herself seems to lose the boundaries which are there in younger, self conscious women. I don't mean that teenagers aren't having sex – they are. But they are not necessarily having a sensual experience which will lead to those rolling orgasms. Oh yes, another great thing about being a woman – we can have rolling orgasms. Those orgasms can go on . . . and on . . . and on. What a gift!

- Can you have sex without love?
- Can you have love without sex?
- Can you have great love without sex?
- Can you have great sex without love?

How would you answer these questions? Of course you can have sex without love and perhaps love without sex, but if you want things to be great, the sparks to fly, violins to play, then really you need both sex and love together. Recreational sex seems to be everywhere. Look around you, especially on Friday and Saturday nights when the youngsters are out to pick someone up for the night. Unlike a generation ago, the younger set are not looking for love and a long term relationship. They are looking for a good time. And it seems to me that in many cases they are getting it – a good time that is! How many times have I heard older people say: 'If only I could do it again now – all those hang ups gone, just go out and have fun.'

Love and romance seems to have taken a step back. Perhaps the one in three divorce rate is putting people off those vows to love and cherish until death do us part. Perhaps watching your own parents divorce is enough to put you off for life. But in my experience there are lots of couples out there who are not doing 'it' and yet stay together and cannot imagine being with someone else. There is a proportion of married couples who rarely, if ever, have sex. In the type of counselling that I do, it isn't rare to meet couples who have been married for 30 years and never had sex. Heterosexual, homosexual, bi – it doesn't matter. Would you say these couples really must love each other to live together so long without having sex together? Or would you suspect that they are getting it somewhere else?

When I am asked what people need to have great sex, I have a simple answer: love, trust and a great imagination. (It helps to be fit as well of course, because then you can play harder and last longer.) When you and your partner love each other deeply then you can trust. When you can trust then you can play using your imagination to push the boundaries. That's what the Erotica Show is all about – playing with the imagination. A couple in love could and should share those games, try those toys and see what works for them. When you push the boundaries with someone you love, press those buttons and light up the lights you can have the greatest sex on earth!

Erotic art in action

A wealth of artistic talents will be demonstrated throughout the days and evenings at Erotica 2001. Watch Ken Clarke (right) create beautiful body moulds. Jackie Henderson will amaze you with her virtuosity as she draws visitors in their own erotic fantasies. Len Gifford will be sculpting the stunning Mistress Caroline (top). Body Painting is the forté of Malcolm Mellon. Paul Woods will be working from a life model to demonstrate classical life-drawing skills. And for the ladies, Jo King will be teaching the art of sensually undressing for your lover.

Naked Art

The artist Peregrine Roskilly, trading as Naked Art, draws exotic dancers during live public performance to capture their movement and sensuality as they reveal themselves. The dancers are his inspiration – their audacity, provocativeness and naturalness adding an excitement to his pen. Each drawing can take only a split second before the dancer's attitude evaporates. The drawings are developed in oil, watercolour, pastel or spirit dye to realise the moment. The Naked Art stand has exhibits of all media at a wide range of prices as originals and posters, plus a new range of sexy greetings cards to spice up your Christmas. Please note the Naked Art stand is not in the Gallery, but on the Ground Floor.

Fantastical Visions

This year we are pleased to welcome the distinguished artist, Brigid Marlin to The Erotic Art Gallery. Brigid is an American artist who lives and works in Hertfordshire. Her exquisite oil paintings – sensual and dreamlike – are painted using a technique developed by Flemish artists in the 1430s! Known as the 'mische technique', the artist builds up layers of egg tempera and oil glazes. A painstaking process – but the final works are breathtaking. In 1998 Marlin founded the Society for Art of the Imagination to promote Visionary and Fantastic art worldwide. She has exhibited her work all over the world, and has a string of impressive portraits under her belt, including The Queen Mother, Lord Longford and the first official portrait of the Dalai Lama. Her portrait of J G Ballard hangs in the National Portrait Gallery, London and her portrait of Cecil Lewis, founder of the BBC, hangs in Bush House.

Wayne E Smyth

The starting point for my work is always the human figure which I abstract from various sources. I am concerned with the simplicity of form and use colour to heighten the sensuality of the work. I aim to convey a strong sense of energy and excitement through sexual imagery. My travels around the world had a significant impact on my imagery. I have taken inspiration from a variety of sources including Greek mythology, Egyptian and Indian art, and the night-life of South East Asia and Australia.

My intention is to stimulate both the viewer's mind and body, taking them away from the conscious moment and transporting them on an erotic journey. My main objective is to convey a sense of positivity and celebration of sexuality.

Charles Sayer

11 Ferdinand House, Ferdinand Street, London NW1 8EB
07984 844375

Charles Sayer is perhaps the first serious artist to paint close-up studies of the anus – or 'anal starburst'. His mixed media works represent the diversity of the vulva and female figure in terms that reinterpret them for a post-feminist age. He also challenges the contemporary artworld where the celebration of sex and the body are wrongly considered obsolescent subjects for 'real' artists. Sayer's work investigates the religious and political basis of sex censorship which still stigmatises the human genitalia.

Hidden depths

Hidden deep in the closet of our minds are fantasies and desires we covet and yet fear. We fear ridicule. We fear rejection. Yet they could light the fuse to an erotic explosion. Closet Desire dares to empty the closet and show the world just what we are hoping for.

Last year the British Board of Film Classification (BBFC) changed its guidelines to allow the classification of full-strength porno movies.

Hardcore films carrying the R18 certificate could for the first time be sold legally in licensed sex shops.

R18 now meant erections, full penetration, masturbation, ejaculation, oral, anal, DPs, gangbangs . . . in fact everything you could ever want from a good porno movie. At last, the UK adult industry had a chance to establish itself as a legitimate business.

Historically the British porno buying public has had a bum deal, forced to jack off to sub-standard, often pirated, tapes with poor sound and vision. Those days are over.

One year on and professional adult production and distribution companies are leading the way to a brighter adult future. But there is still work to be done. Now is a crucial time for the development of the entire industry. A forum of retailers, distributors, producers and performers must be established to discuss and fight for the issues that will shape the adult industry of the future. From regulating the price of videos and DVDs in sex shops up and down the country to mandatory HIV testing for performers on hardcore shoots. There are still so many stones unturned.

Over the last year numerous retailers have opened 'new generation' sex shops, but local councils have been none too liberal in their granting of licences. And with zero quotas in some boroughs, there's little or no hope of a Soho in every town.

On the upside, there is a whole new world of legal hardcore waiting to be discovered. Websites like www.r18online.co.uk offer a comprehensive overview of the UK adult video scene – your chance to catch up on tasty titbits of adult news or be bold and review your favourite porno flick. There's also a UK sex shop guide, plus industry gossip and celebrity interviews. What's more it's totally free. So what are you waiting for?

The summer of 2000 saw a British high court judge ruling that the British Board of Film Classification (BBFC) must certify hardcore material according to BBFC precedents. Thanks to this landmark decision the British public can now enjoy adult material that is comparable to that available throughout the rest of Europe. Such material carries the R18 logo and is only available through licensed outlets. But there's more good news! Due to complicated UK licensing laws and because of the way our company is set up, PABO is legally able to sell R18 HARDCORE videos and DVDs through our mail order operation. So now, free of any embarrassment, adults in the UK can order hardcore videos and DVDs discreetly and confidentially from a highly reputable company in PABO. How convenient is that? Our mail order operation has three main ranges:

- Fashion & lingerie
- Toys & stimuli
- R18 videos & DVDs

shoot!

Digital cameras are serious toys. In fact, more digital cameras are now sold in the UK than film cameras. It's easy to see why. The print quality on new models is as good or better than most snapshot cameras; you can now print and enlarge your own photos; and for those of us who like 'naughty' pictures, we don't have to be embarrassed when collecting our prints from the high street!

Photos on digicams are usually stored on a memory card that can be removed from the camera. Digicams can be connected directly to your computer or you can use an inexpensive 'reader' permanently connected to your PC. These files can then be read by your computer and displayed or printed. Besides a computer, to print out your favourite images you'll need a photo quality printer like the Epson Stylus Photo 890.

Choosing the camera is a challenge, but a good rule of thumb is to spend as much as possible for the features and quality you need. It may be out of style next year but it will still give you good photos for years. Cameras are rated in 'megapixels' and range from less than 1 mp up to 6 mp and beyond. In general cameras rated at less than 1.3 mp are suitable only for web photos; cameras in the 2 mp range will deliver very good snapshots; and cameras rated at 3 mp and up will give many 35mm cameras a run for their money.

If you fancy taking some erotic photos then start with a 2 mp camera or better and look for features like zoom lenses, removable memory, manual overrides, and replaceable batteries. On the budget end you might consider the Fuji Finepix 1300 at under £200. If you're looking for something competitive with a 35mm SLR then consider the Fuji Finepix 6900 with all the bells and whistles at around £700. Nikon,

top 10 tips

- 1) Buy as much camera as you can afford
- 2) Avoid using the on-camera flash
- 3) Try to imitate professional photos that you like
- 4) Don't be afraid to experiment
- 5) Keep props, settings, and poses simple
- 6) Use inks and papers designed for your printer
- 7) Don't use wide-angle lenses on people
- 8) Take your camera with you and use it often
- 9) Remember what works and use it often
- 10) Take lots of photos

Canon, Olympus, and Kodak all have excellent models. Models are changing constantly so do have a look at the digital photo magazines on your newsstand.

Digicams may seem expensive at first glance and printer inks and paper are not cheap, but you'll no longer need to buy film and processing or endure the smirking of some pimple-faced boy at the till – now you'll just have to worry about the in-laws!

Capture the moment

They say that good painters capture the soul of their subject, and good photographers capture their image and the moment. Michael Hosking has spent the last 10 years tailoring photographic services for those who want to capture that special picture forever. His personal service is based on years of experience with clients who wanted something more than 'happy snaps' could offer. Each moment is different for all of us. We see each other in so many different ways and all of us wish we could capture the image that shows us as we are. Capture that image professionally and discreetly, at home or in a studio. Call Michael to discuss your requirements, or talk to him on Stand R3.

EROTICA is the largest adult lifestyle event in Europe, and probably the world. A three day entertainment and shopping experience for free-thinking adults who are comfortable with their sexuality, Erotica attracts nearly 60,000 visitors a year. It boasts the highest footfall per square metre of any exhibition staged at Olympia, London's premiere event arena, outperforming even established events such as The Ideal Home Show and The London Boat Show.

The only event in the UK to hold a 'sex shop' licence, its key to success is that, unlike the sex industry in general, it is targeted at the mind – not the body. As a result of this, Erotica is unique in attracting as many women as men, which makes it truly accessible to couples and singles.

The event, which has been successfully staged 6 times, is the brainchild of Savvas Christodoulou, a professional entrepreneur unconnected with the adult entertainment industry, and is run as a business and profit-making enterprise. Having proven its business model, Erotica is now seeking Franchisees to take the concept overseas. For a combination of downpayment and royalties, Erotica is offering a comprehensive marketing and operational plan, together with ongoing support.

- Interested parties should apply for a Franchise Pack to: EROTICA LTD, Secrets House, Angel Way, Romford RM1 1AB, UK. Tel: 01708 768000, e-mail: Savvas@erotica-uk.com, www.erotica-uk.com
